The Benefits of Health Reform In Washington

Together, the Patient Protection and Affordable Care Act (P.L. 111-148) and the Health Care and Education Reconciliation Act (P.L. 111-152) will ensure that all Washingtonians have access to quality, affordable health insurance. The Congressional Budget Office has determined that these two bills are fully paid for, bend the health care cost curve, and reduce the deficit by $143 billion over the next ten years with further deficit reduction in the following decade. CBO, [3/20/10] The Patient Protection and Affordable Care Act and the Health Care and Education Reconciliation Act put control over health care decision in the hands of the American people, not insurance companies, reduce the cost of health care for the middle class, ensure health security to seniors, and provide tax credits to small businesses and individuals to further reduce the cost of health coverage.

Key Benefits for Washington

- Provide tax credits for up to 106,052 Washington small businesses to help make coverage more affordable. Internal Revenue Service, [4/19/10]
- Prohibit insurance companies from excluding coverage of pre-existing conditions for the 1.6 million children in Washington, starting this year. U.S. Census Bureau, [1/7/10]
- Close the ‘donut hole’ and improve other Medicare benefits for 897,000 Washington seniors. HealthReform.gov, accessed [6/15/10]
- Reduce Medicare premiums for the 692,000 Washington seniors who are not enrolled in Medicare Advantage and will no longer subsidize these private insurance plans. [Senate Finance Committee]
- Reduce health care costs for as many as 94,200 retirees in Washington who have health insurance through their former employer and are not yet eligible for Medicare. WhiteHouse.gov, accessed [6/15/10]
- Ensure affordable coverage options for 811,000 Washingtonians who are uninsured and 359,000 Washingtonians who purchase health insurance through the individual market. HealthReform.gov, accessed [6/15/10]
 - Ensure immediate access to affordable insurance options for as many as 105,019 uninsured Washingtonians who have a pre-existing condition. staff estimate using Agency for Healthcare Research and Quality (AHRQ), [4/09 and HealthReform.gov, accessed 3/20/10] Starting July 1, 2010, approximately $102 million will be available to operate this program in Washington. Department of Health and Human Services, accessed [6/15/10]

- Provide tax credits for up to 457,000 Washingtonians to help make health insurance more affordable, bringing $7.4 billion in premium and cost-sharing tax credits into Washington during the first five years the health insurance Exchange operates. HealthReform.gov, accessed [6/15/10; Senate Finance Committee]
- Reduce family health insurance premiums by $1,470 - $2,090 for the same benefits, as compared to what they would be without health reform by 2016. Senate Finance Committee estimate based on CBO, [11/30/09]
- Provide access to Medicaid for 411,076 newly-eligible Washingtonians, and provide $3.9 billion in federal funding for the cost of their coverage. Urban Institute, [1/25/10; Senate Finance Committee]
- Allow as many as 615,337 young adults aged 19 to 25 to stay on their parents' insurance plans. U.S. Census Bureau, [1/7/10] The Administration estimates this change will help approximately 20,500 young adults in Washington who could now have health insurance coverage through their parents if not for their age. WhiteHouse.gov, accessed [6/7/10]
- Create 5,600 - 8,900 jobs by reducing health care costs for employers. U.S. Public Interest Research Group, [1/20/10]
- Provide more federal funding for 232 Community Health Centers in Washington. National Association of Community Health Centers, [2009]

Affordable Coverage Options for Washington Small Businesses

Small businesses make up 77.7 percent of all Washington businesses, yet just 47.5 percent of these small businesses are able to offer health insurance to their employees. AHRQ, accessed [3/20/10; AHRQ, accessed 3/20/10] Starting this year, up to 106,052 Washington small businesses will be eligible for tax credits for a percentage of their contribution to their employees' health insurance. Internal Revenue Service, [4/19/10] Small businesses of the size that qualify for these tax credits employ 397,172 Washingtonians. AHRQ, accessed [3/20/10]

Protecting Children

Recognizing the special vulnerability of children, health reform prohibits insurance companies from excluding coverage of pre-existing conditions for the 1.6 million children under age 18 in Washington. U.S. Census Bureau, [1/7/10] This takes effect for plan or policy years beginning on or after September 23, 2010, and applies to all new plans.

Strengthening Medicare for Washington Seniors

Health reform improves Medicare benefits for the 897,000 Medicare beneficiaries in Washington. HealthReform.gov, accessed [3/20/10] Last year, approximately 159,000 Washington seniors hit the Medicare Part D 'donut hole,' and about 76,600 of these seniors received no extra help to offset the cost of their prescription drugs. HealthReform.gov, accessed [3/20/10; WhiteHouse.gov, accessed 6/7/10] Starting this year, as many as 76,600 seniors in Washington who don't receive Medicare Extra Help and who hit this gap in their prescription drug coverage will receive a $250 check, and the 'donut hole' will be completely closed by 2020. Seniors do not need to do anything in order to receive their rebate check, which some seniors who already hit the donut hole received in mid-June. These checks will be mailed monthly to seniors who reach the "donut hole" later in the year. The 897,000 Medicare beneficiaries in Washington will see other improvements to the program, including a free, annual wellness visit and no cost-sharing for prevention services. Finally, by gradually moving to a more fair payment system for private insurance companies who participate in Medicare Advantage, health reform will lower Medicare costs for the 692,000 Washington seniors not enrolled in Medicare Advantage, by as much as $45 in premium costs each year. [Senate Finance Committee]

Helping Businesses Help Early Retirees

The health reform law created a $5 billion program to support employer health plans that provide coverage to retirees who are not yet eligible for Medicare, to help protect access to coverage while reducing costs for employers and retirees. As many as 94,200 early retirees in Washington who have health insurance through their former employer could benefit from this program, which will provide financial assistance until 2014, when health insurance Exchanges will make it easier for early retirees to access affordable health insurance. WhiteHouse.gov, accessed [6/7/10] The Department Health and Human Services (HHS) issued regulations indicating the program started on June 1, 2010, in advance of the June 22, 2010 effective date required by law. Federal Register, [5/5/10; White House, 5/4/10] A recent survey found that 76 percent of large employers that offer retiree benefits plan to pursue participation in the program, and that the average federal reimbursement for each early retiree will represent between 25 and 35 percent of each early retiree's health care costs. Hewitt Associates, [5/25/10]

Affordable Coverage Options for Washingtonians

The Patient Protection and Affordable Care Act and the Health Care and Education Reconciliation Act contain several provisions to expand affordable coverage options for millions of Americans. First, health reform will provide immediate access to quality, affordable health insurance for as many as 105,019 uninsured Washingtonians who are unable to obtain health insurance because of a pre-existing condition. staff estimate using AHRQ, [4/09 and HealthReform.gov, accessed 3/20/10] Starting July 1, 2010, approximately $102 million will be available to operate this program in Washington. Department of Health and Human Services, accessed [6/7/10]

Second, health reform will ensure that the 811,000 uninsured Washingtonians and 359,000 Washingtonians who purchase health insurance through the individual market have access to affordable health insurance options through state-based health insurance Exchanges in 2014. HealthReform.gov, accessed [3/20/10] By reforming the insurance market and forcing insurance companies to compete for business through the Exchange, health reform will reduce family health insurance premiums by $1,470 - $2,090 for the same benefits. Senate Finance Committee estimate based on CBO, [11/30/09] In addition, 457,000 Washingtonians who purchase health insurance through the Exchange will receive premium tax credits to help make health insurance even more affordable. HealthReform.gov, accessed [3/20/10] During the first five years that the health insurance Exchange is operational, Washingtonians will receive $7.4 billion in premium and cost-sharing tax credits to further reduce the cost of health insurance. [Senate Finance Committee]

Finally, health reform will open access to Medicaid for 411,076 newly eligible Washingtonians, by expanding eligibility to non-elderly parents, childless adults, children, and pregnant women with income up to 133 percent of the federal poverty level. Urban Institute, [1/25/10] The federal government will fully fund the cost of covering these newly eligible individuals for three years and will pay 90 percent of these costs after 2020, compared to the current contribution in Washington of 50.1 percent of costs. In total, Washington could receive $3.9 billion in federal funding during just the first five years of this coverage expansion. [Senate Finance Committee]

Affordable Coverage Options for Washington Young Adults

According to the National Conference of State Legislatures, “Young adults often lose their health insurance if covered under a parent’s or guardian’s policy at age 19 or upon graduation from high school or college.” NCSL, accessed [3/20/10] For plan or policy years beginning on or after September 23, 2010, young adults in Washington will be able to remain covered by their parent’s insurance policy until age 26. Ultimately, the 615,337 young adults aged 19 to 25 in Washington could benefit from this policy, and the Administration estimates it will help approximately 20,500 young adults in Washington who could now have health insurance coverage through their parents if not for their age. U.S. Census Bureau, [1/7/10; WhiteHouse.gov, accessed 6/7/10] In addition, once the health insurance Exchanges are operational in 2014, 1 million Washingtonians under age 30 will have access to less costly catastrophic-only health insurance plans. U.S. Census Bureau, [1/7/10] These plans will also be available to others who are exempt from the individual responsibility policy.

Job Creation

A recent analysis found that slowing the growth rate of health care costs will make it more profitable for businesses to expand employment, leading to estimated job gains nationwide of 250,000 – 400,000 per year for the next decade as a result of health reform. Center for American Progress, [1/10] For Washington, this could mean 5,600 - 8,900 new jobs each year. U.S. Public Interest Research Group, [1/20/10]

Support for Washington Community Health Centers

Community health centers provide critical health care to Washingtonians, regardless of their ability to pay. Health reform makes an immediate and substantial investment in the 232 federally-funded health centers in Washington. National Association of Community Health Centers, [2009]
